Contested Histories: Art & Artifacts from the Eaton Collection
This is the collection that was almost auctioned off in 2015 until Japanese American individuals and organizations intervened and prevented the items from being sold. All of the artwork and artifacts from the Japanese American incarceration camps were saved and are now at the Japanese American National Museum. The collection includes more than 450 paintings, photographs, sculptures, pieces of jewelry and other objects from the camps. For more information, go to: http://www.janm.org/exhibits/contested-histories/

Sadako’s Crane
Sadako Sasaki was born in Hiroshima and was two years old when the atomic bomb was dropped on that city. When she was 12 and hospitalized for leukemia, she learned of the Japanese belief that anyone who folds 1000 cranes would be granted a wish. Although she folded 1,300 cranes, she died on October 25, 1955. Since then Sadako and the crane has become immortalized as a symbol for world peace. One of the original cranes folded by Sadako was presented to the museum by her family and is on display. For more information: http://www.janm.org/exhibits/sadako-crane/

Common Ground: The Heart of the Community
This exhibit incorporates hundreds of objects, documents, and photographs collected by the Japanese American National Museum and chronicles 130 years of Japanese American history, beginning with the early days of the Issei pioneers through the WWII incarceration to the present.
